

Annual Community Awards

Mollie Bell Social Activist Award

This award is given to a person who has made both a moral and conscious decision to stand up for what is “just and right” regardless of an individual’s ethnic background. He/she is actively involved in their community and will stand with others to protest against injustices and hopelessness. The overriding principles of this award is to “uplift the disadvantaged and give hope.” The person named should stand for what is right and not be afraid to stand alone. The recipient should exemplify passion, humility, and remember that the fight goes on, the struggle continues, but always “To God be the glory.”
